PRESIDENT HARDING SUFFERS SERIOUS COLLAPSE

HEART SYMPTOMS OF A SERIOUS NATURE WORRY PHYSICIANS

All Pacific Coast Speech
Making Called Off and
Chief Executive Kept
to His Bed By Doctors.

HAD A GOOD NIGHT

San Francisco, Cal., July 30.—President Harding has suffered a serious collapse following the illness that attacked him in Seattle. Serious heart symptoms have developed. After a consultation of physicians early this morning, the President's entire Pacific program has been cancelled.

At five o'clock this morning Doctor Joel T. Boone, who remained through the night at President Harding's bedside reported that the President was sleeping quietly and he had passed a fairly good night.

Secretary Christian, early today, sent a telegram to the committee in charge of arrangements for the President's visit to Los Angeles, Catalina and San Diego informing them of the calling off of all Pacific Coast engagements.

President Harding left Washington on June 20th on his trip to Alaska and his first speech was delivered June 21, at St. Louis. He made many addresses between that time and July 5th, when he embarked on the transport Henderson for the voyage through the inside passage to Alaska. Enroute back to Vancouver and Seattle he and several members of his party were made ill by ptomaine poisoning, believed to have been caused by a crab served at a dinner. Upon arrival at San Francisco the President seemed to be improved but heart symptoms developed and all his Pacific engagements have been cancelled, including speeches at San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego.

San Francisco, Cal., July 30.—President Harding was still sleeping at 8:30 a. m. today, it was learned at his suite in the Palace Hotel here.

At that hour Mrs. Harding had arisen and began her day's watch at her husband's bedside.

San Francisco, Cal., July 30.—President Harding's condition was improved this morning, Secretaries Hoover and Work said at 9:40 a. m. today after they had called at the President's suite.

President Harding is the second chief executive to be stricken while on a speaking tour through the country.

In September, 1919, Woodrow Wilson was forced to abandon his trip in behalf of the League of Nations when he suffered a nervous collapse aboard his special train near Wichita, Kan. Mr. Harding had an attack of ptomaine poisoning and developed heart symptoms in the Palace hotel, San Francisco, having been forced to cancel the remainder of his Pacific Coast speeches.

ANNOUNCES MARRIAGE

Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly, of Curwensville, announce the marriage of their daughter, Florence Mae, to Edwin Passmore, which happy event occurred on Monday, July 2nd, 1923. The groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Passmore of the Leonard House.

The young couple are "at home" at 103's North Elm Street, Warren, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Al Rogers and son Raymond left Saturday in their car for a two weeks' tour of eastern cities. They will visit at Lock Haven, Sunbury, Mt. Pocono, Stroudsburg, Delaware Water Gap, Pa.; Phillipsburg, N. J., and New York City.

Cuno's Resignation Is Frankly Demanded By Many German Papers

Beilin, July 30.—Resignation of Chancellor Cuno's cabinet is openly demanded by many German newspapers.

Dissatisfaction with the Government's financial and taxation policy is the fundamental complaint. Collapse of the mark, which hit a new record low at 1,100,000 to the dollar when the Bourse opened today is blamed upon Cuno's policy of speeding up the printing presses to meet the falling exchange.

DUBOIS GIRL IS DEAD AS THE RESULT OF AN AUTOMOBILE MISHAP

DuBois, Pa., July 30.—As the result of an automobile accident that took place on the dirt road between the DU Pennsylvania tower and the state highway at Shuffers, one girl is dead another one is seriously injured and three others injured, the exact extent not yet known.

The dead:
Miss Mary Rokoski, aged 18, died at the Maple Avenue hospital.

The injured:

Miss Valera Bills, aged 15 years, dislocated shoulder and lacerations. Patient at the Maple Avenue hospital.

Miss Anna Wallack, aged 15, lacerations and minor bruises. Patient at the Maple Avenue hospital.

Mary Kuderavich, slightly injured, taken to her home.

"Choo Choo" Wallack, driver of the car, slightly hurt.

The Bills girls were in a truck with some other girls enroute to Narrows Creek, when a tire was punctured. They stopped along the road, while the driver fixed the puncture. About this time the fire whistle blew and the Wallack car came along. It already contained the Kuderavich girl and the Wallack girl, and the other two girls got in. It is stated that they came to town, and were enroute back to the truck when the accident happened. Miss Mary Urban, who was with the truckload, stated that she saw the car coming back; that all at once the car jumped into the air and then toppled over on its side and continued rolling over until it struck a tree alongside the road. She saw the girls thrown out onto the road.

Those at the truck immediately hurried to the scene. It was found that the Rokoski girl was unconscious. The Bills girl arose after the accident and started to walk, but collapsed. Wallack, the driver, emerged from the wreck and asked for the girls. The other occupants, apparently were not injured to any extent.

The two most seriously injured were immediately hurried to the hospital, and given attention. It was found that the Rokoski girl had suffered a compound fracture of the skull and she lingered in an unconscious condition until 6:30 o'clock, when death came.

The condition of the Bills girl is described as very good, considering the extent of her injuries. The other occupants of the car were not seriously hurt.

COYNE CONFESSES TO MURDERING OF HIS BRIDE IN FIGHT

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 30.—Tortured by the vision of his girl wife falling at his feet with a bullet hole in her head, Patrick Coyne, brakeman, in the West Penn hospital with both legs off above the knees as a result of falling under a train, today cleared the mystery surrounding the finding of the nude body of his wife, Julia, in the honeymoon cottage at Port Perry nearly two weeks ago.

Coyne said his wife was shot while they were scuffling for possession of a revolver after he had reprimanded her for lying in bed and neglecting him.

After the shooting Coyne said he washed the body, placed it in bed and covered it up. He said he left home and returned twice, finally going to work.

Worried and nervous, he said he fell under a train in the Duquesne yards where he was employed as a brakeman. Coyne did not attempt suicide, he said.

FORD, POOR MAN AT 40, IS FABULOUSLY RICH TODAY AT 60

Detroit, Mich., July 30.—Henry Ford, maker of automobiles and the world's richest man, is 60 years old today.

Twenty years ago, on his fortieth birthday, he was a poor man. He had just quit a job with the Detroit Edison Company where he had worked seven years to organize the Ford Motor Company.

While he was working as a master mechanic in the Edison power plant, carrying his dinner pail to work and drawing a salary of $12 a month, Ford was spending his nights and holidays working on his "ho less carriage."

LEWIS DENIES HE HAS ANY PART IN CODE LITIGATION

Harrisburg, Pa., July 30.—"I am not a party to or interested in the Snyder-Woodruff controversy nor will I permit the attorney general or state treasurer, or even the Governor to draw me into the same," Auditor General S. S. Lewis declared in a statement today.

Woodruff was to see Lewis today to request him to certify the payment of salaries held up by Snyder, notwithstanding the fact that they have not been returned to the auditor general for such action.

"The auditor general has done everything required of him in connection with these disputed matters," Lewis stated. He said he intended to co-operate "not only with the Pinchot administration but with the Treasury Department."

THE WEATHER THIS WEEK

Washington, D. C., July 30.—Weather outlook for period Monday, July 30 to Saturday, August 4, 1923, inclusive:

Temperature near the average for the season; generally fair, but probability of widely scattered thunder showers.

SINGLE TRAIN KILLS FOURTEEN PEOPLE AT A GRADE CROSSING; SUNDAY'S TOLL IS THIRTY-SEVEN THROUGHOUT NATION

New York, July 30.—Thirty-seven persons were killed and scores injured over Sunday when they were struck by speeding railroad trains. Most of the casualties occurred when the trains crashed into automobiles on grade crossings.

A single train, enroute from St. Louis to New York, killed four in one accident, nine in the second and then killed a man, making fourteen in all. Four women and a man were killed when their automobile stalled in front of an express train on Long Island.

Four were killed at Gainesboro, Ga., and four at Popular Bluffs, Mo. Three were killed at Glasboro, N. J.

FIVE UNMASKED BANDITS KILL MAN AND WOUND FOUR IN HOLD-UP OF AN ELECTRIC TRAIN NEAR PITTSSTON; STEAL PAYROLL

Pittston, Pa., July 30.—Opening fire when they met resistance, five unmasked bandits today killed one passenger, wounded four others and escaped from the Laurel Line electric, interurban train with an $85,000 payroll of the West End Coal Company.

The hold-up, the most sensational ever staged in this section, occurred while the train was speeding south of Moosic shortly after 9:30 o'clock this morning. The motorman fell, shot through the chest. The bandits stopped the train near North Avoca where they disappeared in the woods.

Edward J. Maloney, 36, Scranton, representative of the Maloney Oil Company, who was a passenger, was shot to death.

An unidentified elderly woman also a passenger, was so badly wounded that she is not expected to recover. She was rushed to the Pittston Hospital.

New Kind of Merchandising Establishment.

Arrangements have been made by the Ell-Jay Stores Co., Inc., to open up one of their 5c to $5.00 stores in the location previously occupied by O. T. Tobias on Market street. The definite date of the opening is not known but will take place as soon as the Tobias shoe stock is disposed of.

The Ell-Jay Corporation has the backing of a reliable business man.

2068 CARS IN NINE HOURS

Constable T. R. Reilly, who was on duty Sunday taking a count of the automobiles crossing the concrete bridge over Clearfield Creek on the Clearfield-Woodland road, tallied up 2068 cars passing between the hours of 2 in the afternoon to 11 o'clock at night.

CORRY HORSE SHOE PITCHERS LOSE TO LOCAL BARNYARDERS

Corry, Pa., is like Clearfield, an enthusiastic horseshoe town as evidenced by the fact that three auto loads of pitchers and boosters made the 150 mile trip from the up-state town on Saturday to meet the local tossers, leaving Corry at 4 a. m., arriving at Clearfield at 3 p. m., most of the trip being made through the severe rain storm.

Concerning Mr. Wolf, Community Service Executive at Corry and his horseshoe pitchers, the Clearfield club takes pleasure in saying that they are perfect gentlemen and genuine sports. The dignified and friendly manner in which they took their defeat made a fine and lasting impression on Clearfield. The condition under which the games were pulled off were by no means regular, owing to weather conditions yet there was never a kick from the Corryites.

It is expected to return the visit in two weeks and the local men are anticipating a jolly trip and friendly reception as well as a good game. To the pitchers listed below will be added Hudson of Ogden avenue who was to play doubles with Mr. Johnson. Both doubles matches were started but the rain became a bit too wet.

WRESTLING MATCH BETWEEN BROTHERS TURNS OUT FATAL

Philadelphia, Pa., July 30.—Raymond McGee, 20, is grief stricken today as a result of a friendly wrestling match with his brother, James, 16, which ended fatally for the younger boy.

The two boys were scuffling in the kitchen of their home yesterday when James suddenly fell heavily on the floor. Raymond noticed that his brother did not move, became alarmed and summoned help. A doctor was called but the boy was dead. Overstrain of the heart was given as the cause of his death.

headed by Leon Luxenberg of Osceola Mills and Reuben Jaffe of Phillipsburg and it is the policy of the stores to give absolutely the best values for the money.

"A new kind of store operated in a different kind of way," is the description the company itself gives of the store. By means of a large capital they are able to buy quality merchandise in large quantities for cash at a tremendous saving, and by selling at a very close margin of profit the store is expected to do a big volume of business. A varied stock will be carried and nothing will be priced over $5.00. It will include footwear for the family, hats, shirts, neckwear, underwear, sweaters, gloves, rugs, full line of women's and children's dresses, window shades, table oilcloth, toys and all kinds of novelties. Everything will be displayed on tables and counters, enabling all customers to examine the entire stock. Two men in the store will be making change for figures.

Two of the store's signs of the same color as the sign of the company is, "SAY IT WITH VALUES" and "TRADE WITH US AND SAVE THE DIFFERENCE."

WITNESSES DECLARE MAHAFFEY BRIDGE SURFACE BUM JOB

Three Inch Dirt Cushion
Laid Between Concrete
and Top Coat Seems to Be Trouble Maker.

ABSORBS MOISTURE

A public hearing on the Mahaffey bridge, due to the the county viewers refusing to take the bridge off the hands of Contractors Whitaker & Diehl, of Harrisburg, was held at the Court House this morning. Judge Bell presided while the county viewers, County Commissioners and County Solicitor Woodward, county controller's attorney John M. Urey, Esq., and Attorneys W. C. Miller and James A. Gleason, representing interested parties, were present. A delegation of Mahaffey citizens were also on hand to look things over.

H. A. Reese, of the Board of Viewers, was the first witness called and testified as to the fault found by the viewers with the floor of the bridge, which he said they considered entirely inadequate for the purpose. He said this floor consisted of a three-inch slab of concrete laid upon the iron. Upon this slab was placed a three-inch dirt cushion and on top of this was to be placed three inches of waterbound macadam, which the viewers found instead of repelling the water acted more like a sieve and allowed it to filter through.

Engineer G. A. Flink, of Harrisburg, employed by the County Commissioners as engineer of bridges for the county, was next called. In reply to the questioning of County Solicitor Woodward Mr. Flink stated that the plans for the bridge were prepared in his office, but said the provision for a telford or macadam roadbed was a mistake. However in describing the complained of job he said the same had not been constructed properly, that the dirt for the three inch cushion should have been carefully chosen and then rolled dry and devoid of all moisture, which he was not sure was done by the contractor. He also said the bridge was opened by the contractor too soon, without authorization, and this accounted for the rut in the roadway. That he had recommended the removal of the present surface, the same to be replaced with concrete. Thought this could be done for $300 or $500, although he had recommended that $500 be withheld from the contractors for such replacement. He said the contractors had complied with all the specifications except as to the roadway, and that the "pointing up," while not neatly done, did not interfere with or weaken the masonry on pier and abutments.

When Attorney Woodward finished with the witness Controller's Counsel Jno. M. Urey took him in hand. To Mr. Urey's questioning Mr. Flink said in part—

That plans were made in his office, but that he did not know the bridge

THERE IS BALM IN GILEAD, A LITTLE AT LEAST SINCE WE WON A BASEBALL GAME FROM OLD RIVALS-PHILIPPSBURG

Though we felt constrained to doubt it, we are now of the opinion there is at least a small portion of "Balm in Gilead." We were moved to this conclusion on Saturday afternoon over at the Park where our local American Legion Ball Team jumped onto their Phillipsburg rivals and smote their hip and thigh. In fact the slaughter was so complete that it brought tears to the eyes of old Jupiter Pluvius himself and this tight old curmudgeon became so affected by the sight that he wept so copiously in the eighth inning that Umpire Linschbiger was forced to call the game as our half of that session started.

This was our first victory over the Centre county tossers in four starts and the fans waxed enthusiastically excited thereat. Guy Cowdick, our best bet in the pitching line, was primarily responsible for the victory, as he held the visitors to but seven scattered hits. Jones started for Phillipsburg but the soggy ball appeared to bother him and he was hit pretty hard for six innings, at which time he was relieved by Hancock who got even worse treatment.

The hitting of McCloskey, Shanley and Heberling featured the locals work, while McCloskey and Mahaffey starred in left and at third.

RALPH DUNBAR'S BELL RINGERS

It is doubtful if any musical feature has ever been presented to the American public which has won greater favor or obtained a wider following than that of musical bell-ringing.

The art was brought to America first in the forties, by the late P. T. Barnum. While touring England, he heard a group of a dozen church bell-ringers practicing upon hand bells and he conceived the idea of using a larger peal of bells and playing more elaborate music. These bells were made in England, as the world's best bells always have been; but in conformity with his unfeeling originality as an advertiser he dressed the players, both men and women, in the costumes of Swiss peasants and called the company "The Swiss Bell Ringers." For many years this company toured the United States in wagons before railroads were at all general. The art at that time was so successful that our grandfathers recall most vividly the visit of "The Swiss Bell Ringers" to their native towns.

It seems that thereafter the art fell into disuse and it was not really perfected or revived in any worthy way until 1898, when Ralph Dunbar and his brother founded the famous Dunbar Bell Ringers, at St. Joseph, Mo. These brothers went to Europe, and, seeing the really artistic possibilities, they went to England and had made, under their personal supervision, a peal of 200 bells, which are undoubtedly the most complete and most perfect set of bells which were ever cast. These bells were made under their own personal supervision by the same bell founders that cast the great bells of Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral, in London, as well as practically all of the well-known church bells of the world. The peal embraces more than five octaves chromatic, and through middle registers there are as many as six bells of the same note. The voice of the Dunbar Bell Ringers is the most notable of any similar company which has appeared on the American concert platform. They gave more than 2800 concerts up to 1922, when both Harry and Ralph Dunbar resigned their places in the quartet to others. The company, up to then, had traveled 490,000 miles in America and Europe. The Dunbar brothers have collected hundreds of pages of newspaper material published regarding their tours, but the patrons of this Chautauqua system are sufficiently familiar with this widely known concert company to recall the marvelous musical effects which this quartet of players obtains from this splendid peal of bells.

It may be interesting to know that the largest of these bells weighs twenty-five pounds and measures sixteen inches in diameter. The size of those proceeding upward in the scale, diminishing until the tiny bells of the upper registers are reached. In selecting the repertoire due attention is paid to the selection of music which is really appropriate for bells. There is none of us but what has thought of the important place which bells play in our mental activities due to their association with so many epoch-making events in our lives. Perhaps no contributor to our literature has so vividly brought out this fanciful use of bells as has Edgar Allan Poe in his poem entitled "The Bells."

The feature which characterizes the programs of the Dunbar Quartet is the absolute blending of their programs into the complete whole. The o is a consistency in these programs which have distinguished them among all Chautauqua attractions of the last double decade. No feature will be remembered longer than the beautiful chimes and harmonies which are introduced in their sacred selections.

James A. Gleason, Esq., and Hugh Jeffries were DuBois visitors transacting legal business at the Court House today.

Mr. and Mrs. Judd Carnes and children were the guests of Mrs. Ed Chase and Mrs. C. E. Chase at the Goshen Rod and Gun Club on Friday.

W. C. and John Pentz and Charles H. Barrett represented DuBois at the county seat today.

Miss Elva Walker returned Sunday evening from a week's visit with friends at Williamsport, Jersey Shore and Avia.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Shank, of Snow Shoe, motored up to Clearfield yesterday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Banks Smith, at their home on Witmer street.

Miss Anna E. Anderson is visiting her parents at Lock Haven this week.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Although "Clover," a horse more than 50 years old, belonging to a Baptist minister near Catawissa, Pa., holds the world's record for age, "Old Kate," the 47-year-old mule that was driven over the streets of Tuscaloosa, Alabama, more than thirty years ago, is a close second and is in a class by herself.

Four years after the world war the United States Government spent $3,500,000,000 of the $4,109,104,150 collected in federal taxes (1922), in paying for past wars and preparing for future conflicts. The balance, about 15 per cent, or some $600,000,000, covered all other governmental departments. This is an economic monstrosity.

If the government told every taxpayer when taking his money, "We are going to spend 85 cents of each of these dollars for war," what would the tax-payer say?

Now the present receipts from tariff rates are approximately 49 per cent of the total federal revenue for the fiscal year 1924, quite enough to meet all peace-time governmental expense. Imagine what it would mean, had people been sane enough to keep out of wars, for the government to be able to say, as it might but for these war taxes, "No money is needed this year from the tax-payer. The tariff is providing all that is necessary." And this is just what might have happened had men and nations dared venture to stake their fortunes on the Golden Rule. No country is so prosperous as to stand this gigantic waste forever. If men could once realize what war has cost them for at least these last 2,000 years the folly would cease.

It took Henry Ford twelve years to sell his first million cars. It took him only six months to sell his eighth million.

Here you have a clear-cut illustration of a principle that regulates success in nearly every field of endeavor. It is so universal a principle that it is almost a natural law.

This is the principle: Getting started is nine-tenths of the battle for success. Once we are "on our feet"—definitely progressing toward our goal—our progress increasingly becomes easier.

Every self-made rich man, looking back over his career, knows that it is more difficult to accumulate the first $1,000 than any $10,000 that follows. Hence the expression: "Money breeds money."

More than 2,000,000 passenger autos and trucks were turned out by

Watch and Clock Repairing

There's a right and a wrong way to do these things but there's only one way that it is done here—RIGHT. When you bring in the timepiece and tell me that it isn't keeping the kind of time that you would like to have and tell me to fix it up, you may rest assured that it will be done as you would like to have it done.

Another thing—sometimes we tell you that you may have a watch or clock at a certain time. But when we get into the repair work, we find that new parts are needed and that we must order them for you, that necessarily makes more or less of a delay. But we try to avoid this as much as possible by keeping quite a stock of parts right here.

American factories in the first six months of 1923. Which is at a rate of about 4,000,000 cars a year.

Ford this year expects to build 1,800,000 cars and trucks.

We are on wheels, as a nation, and the penalty of not exercising our legs enough is showing up in bad digestion, fretful nerves and lessened powers of resisting disease.

Life is becoming too automatic and "soft" for health.

The people of the United States pay more than a million dollars a week for their chewing gum. And the "habit" is apparently a growing one, for the value turned out by the factories of the United States in the latest census year, 1921, is more than double that of the pre-war year, 1914, the first year in which the government dignified the industry by official statements of the amount turned out by the factories of the country.

THERE IS BALM IN GILEAD.

MENIHAN'S ARCH-AID SHOES

"Corrective"—yes, but correct in style also!

That is our message to every woman who needs scientific arch support—but who desires trim foot-wear of fashionable appearance.

Menihan's Arch-Aid shoes are esteemed for their smart custom lines by women of exacting tastes.

They are correct according to the best metropolitan standards. Yet they are also "corrective," giving support in proper measure and improving foot posture, while aiding the arch to maintain its normal beauty.

Be fair to your arches. Suffering and ill health follow neglect. Thanks to these shoes—fair treatment will actually add grace to the whole foot!

The four-strap oxford shown, has slim, graceful severity of line, which helps to accentuate as well as maintain the natural beauty of the arch. Brown or black, in all sizes and widths.

Painting Windows.
An effective and cheap method of darkening windows is to stipple them by means of a brush with white lead and turpentine, applied lightly or thickly as desired. Red lead could be used where a tint is preferred, or other colors could be obtained by mixing the pigment of the desired shade with the white lead. This preparation can easily be removed.

Croquet Once "Fall Mail."
Croquet is the descendant of the old game of "Fall Mail," popular in England up to 1600, after which time it died completely out of favor here, except in a remote corner of Ireland, from whence it emerged as croquet in the middle of the Nineteenth century.

Joy of the Work.
On the lower levels there is no adaptation; our selfish desires are at odds with nature, we are out for a good time and get no response; but the keynote of the higher level is Joy—the joy of the father who has found his work, of the lover who has seen his object, of the hero who has received his commission—T. P. Jackson

The Century Plant.
The report that a century plant blooms only once in a hundred years is probably due to the impatience of some of its admirers. In some parts of South America where it grows wild it blooms once in a hundred years, but when it has been transplanted into greenhouses under artificial conditions its blooming date is much prolonged.

Gender of Ships.
It is a well-known fact that ships are almost invariably referred to as being of the feminine gender. Now and then a ship is called "it," but with rare exceptions the reference is "she" or "her." Just why this is so it would be difficult to tell—the custom is so ancient.

It is not surprising that President Harding has suffered a breakdown. He has had a three year grind of the hardest kind of a job—trying to please a hundred million people. These three years have been crowded with events of great magnitude. There has hardly been a moment that he could call his own, even his hours of play being set by rigid rules of medical men and secretaries. The trip to Alaska to many of us would be a joyride but to Mr. Harding it is work. Three, four and even six times a day he had to appear before throngs of people to make a speech and speech making requires effort. Not alone does it require physical exertion but in his position he must of necessity exercise great care to choose his words, else his statements would be misconstrued and deliberately twisted by those with ulterior motives.

It is hardly likely that Mr. Harding's illness will be of the serious nature of Mr. Wilson's breakdown. Mr. Wilson's breakdown followed a long period of intense devotion to a great ideal, the working out of which was almost too strenuous for any man to live through. Mr. Harding's illness was caused by something that he ate. His recovery will be speedy, we predict, but the heart symptoms he shows, serve to emphasize to us the drain on a constitution of the rigorous life a president of a red-blooded nation must live.

Despite the fact that there are hundreds of bridges across streams in the state of Pennsylvania carrying vehicle traffic, it appears that somebody had to continue experimenting in the surface of these bridges and, judging from the hearing this morning on the Mahaffey Bridge, Clearfield County is going to pay something to add to the sum total of knowledge had by bridge engineers.

The idea of a dirt cushion between a concrete base and a water bound macadam surface on a county bridge sounds good—for good weather. We can imagine that roadway having a resiliency that would take all the shakes out of the rear seat of a Henry Ford. We can also imagine a freezing climate clogging up all drainage holes, with the result that a Spring thaw would stand that macadam on end and make of it a fac simile of the bad lands of Dakota, thereby restoring to the aforesaid Henry all his natural shakes and a few more besides.

The funny part of it is that the designer of this bridge was not content to draw up the plans and specifications in accordance with proven successful methods. $500.00 is not enough to withhold to re-surface this bridge. Neither is $900.00. It will be interesting to see the bids made on this work.

Is Auditor General Sam Lewis out of training? Sam has been in the limelight ever since the big show started at Harrisburg—in fact he had a hand in starting it—and when there was a lull between the acts, Sam leaped into the Pinchot arena, cracked a whip or two, discharged a blank pistol at the animals, and put the show across.

Now that Mr. Snyder and Mr. Pinchot are putting on a side show or concert after the big show, Sam refuses to snake dance or ride the bucking bronchos. He does, however, agree to keep back the crowd and pick up any performers who are thrown from their steeds. "Co-operate" is the word Sam uses.

But Sam ought to be in that show. He is some actor. His new role is a new one but full of opportunities and Sam never overlooked an opportunity yet.

A MILLION DOLLARS A WEEK FOR CHEWING GUM

Census figures show output of the factories $40,000,000 in 1921, stated at factory values. Exports go to 75 different countries of the world.

The people of the United States pay more than a million dollars a week for their chewing gum. And the "habit" is apparently a growing one, for the value turned out by the factories of the United States in the latest census year, 1921, is more than double that of the pre-war year, 1914, the first year in which the government dignified the industry by official statements of the amount turned out by the factories of the country.

This assertion that the people of the United States now pay more than a million dollars a week for their chewing gum is based upon statements of the factory output of this particular industry compiled for the Trade Record of The National City Bank of New York. It shows that the value at the factory of the chewing gum produced in the United States in 1921, the latest census year, was $38,1 million dollars, to which may be added about 2 1/2 million dollars as a by-product of certain other factories, making the factory value of the total output in 1921 about 41 million dollars, while of course the additional sums paid by the final purchaser would bring the total sum paid by the consumers considerably above an average of one million dollars a week. It seems that the "habit" has proved contagious as relates to other countries, for our exports of chewing gum show as large a percentage of increase as do those of factory production. Whether it was the example set by the American soldiers who found it a convenient companion in their long marches, it is at least a fact that the world demand began shortly after the opening of the war and grew very rapidly, since official statistics of exports, which only began with the year 1916, show an advance from less than 1 million dollars in 1916 to 2 1/2 millions in 1920, while the value of the exports in 1923, though materially less than in 1920, are 40% greater than in 1922.

Where does it go—these millions of dollars worth of this product now being sent out of the country to the foreign countries? To practically every country of the world. Figures prepared for the Trade Record show that the exports of chewing gum in 1920 went to no less than 75 countries and colonies scattered the world over. To dignified England the total exports of 1920 were approximately a million dollars, measured at the wholesale price at the port from which exported, and in 1918 the exports to Great Britain were $1,120,000. France took in 1920 $383,000 worth, and other European countries in proportionate quantities, though to Germany the export was comparatively small, only $260 worth. That it is equally popular in the other side of the globe is evidenced by the fact that our total exports to Asia and Oceania amounted to nearly a half million dollars in value, including $288,000 to the Philippines, $75,000 to Japan, $42,000 to Australia, and $14,000 to India. South America also developed the habit and the total to that continent in 1920 was $275,000, while the sales in Africa were also large, the total to Egypt alone being nearly $100,000.

That the habit has "come to stay" seems to be an accepted view by that very high authority—capital, for nothing is so wary as capital in forecasting the future demand of a manufacturing industry. And when we find, says the Trade Record, that the amount of capital invested in the chewing gum industry as stated by the census reports was in 1919 $23,000,000 against only $10,000,000 in 1914, it would appear that those studying the standpoint of the investor have confidence in the future world demand for this article of which the United States is apparently the chief producer, since official records of the government fail to show any importations of this class of merchandise.

Witnesses Declare

was to be located on an improved state road; that he hadn't been at the site of the bridge for at least a year previous to the letting of the contract in September, 1922, was there in 1921. He said a roadway like the present one was insufficient for the traffic and when asked why he recommended it in the original plan said he did so as a matter of economy. He said the specifications were afterward changed by the viewers and that he suggested the change to concrete, and did so because he found the original insufficient when he learned the bridge was on a state road, and again said he didn't specify sufficient roadway for this bridge as a matter of economy, saying he expected to save $400 thereby. He also said the decision to change the specifications had been made by the County Commissioners. He now recommends that the roadway be made of concrete similar to that of the state road at either end of the bridge.

At the conclusion of Engineer Flink's testimony Judge Bell asked if any other person desired to be heard. The contractors were present, but had nothing to say and when Commissioner Weimer told the Court there was a delegation of Mahaffey citizens present, Judge Bell said he knew anything was said and asked if they had anything to say. Their spokesman informed the Court that all they had to say was they "wanted a solid roadway on that bridge."

County Surveyor Charles A. McDonald was called and he went into further details as to the defects in the roadway as pointed out in the report of the viewers which he had up to the contractors and resulted in this hearing. At the conclusion of the testimony of the county surveyor Judge Bell announced the hearing to be at an end and stated that he would render his opinion and decree in the matter in the near future.

WANDERING FROM HOME, DUBOIS LADY IS FOUND DEAD

DuBois, Pa., July 30.—The lifeless remains of Mrs. William Lawless, of West Washington avenue, were found in a clump of woods near the old Edgemont Park yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock, following a search that had extended over a period dating since Saturday morning, at which time Mrs. Lawless left her home, supposedly on a shopping trip uptown.

Last April Marie Lawless, a daughter of the deceased, died, and since that time the mother has grieved deeply, and undoubtedly at the time she left home was in a despondent frame of mind.

On Saturday morning, Mrs. Lawless, with a basket on her arm, left the home and started uptown, apparently. Mr. Lawless saw her go and supposed she was going on a shopping expedition. After the passing of a couple of hours and the missing woman did not come home, a search was instituted. This search continued all day, relatives and friends being enlisted. Towards evening, with no signs of the missing woman, genuine alarm was felt, and the search was prosecuted, diligently into the night, but no traces were found.

Yesterday the search was started on a larger scale. The area around was sounded about 1:30 and a large crowd assembled at the Friendship

NEW BOILER AND ELEVATOR EXAM. RULES ANNOUNCED

Harrisburg, July 30. (United Press).—Secretary Royal Meeker, of the Department of Labor and Industry, has recalled the credentials of all boiler and elevator inspectors issued prior to passage of the new fee laws and will issue new credentials only to qualified inspectors, either attached to casualty companies or the department, it was announced today.

Plans have been practically completed, according to the announcement, to put into effect the provisions of these laws, which are expected to bring in fees to meet the expenses incurred in enforcement.

Another fee law placed under jurisdiction of the Department of Labor and Industry is the Bedding and Upholstery law, passed last session. In the enforcement of this law, it was stated, the new revenue expected to be derived therefrom in the sale of tags to be attached to all articles covered in this act will more than pay the operating expenses necessary to carry out its provisions.

Dr. Meeker explained the boiler and elevator laws operate as follows: "All owners of uninsured boilers shall pay a fee of ten dollars for each annual internal and external inspection of a boiler while not under pressure, which fee includes an external inspection of said boiler under operating conditions, and the actual expenses incurred by the inspector."

"This includes the certificate fee of one dollar which certificate is issued to all owners of boilers, and which indicates thereon that the boiler is safe to operate at the pressure limit named in the inspector's report."

"The annual fee collected by the department for inspection of elevators, will be a fee of one dollar, to be paid when the certificate permitting operation of the elevator is issued by the department, upon report of the inspector that the elevator is in a safe working condition."

Hose Company headquarters, from which point an organized search was started. It was shortly before three o'clock that the lifeless remains were found in the woods, death probably coming from exhaustion.

Mrs. Lawless was 60 years of age and had lived in DuBois for many years. She was a woman of the highest type, one who believed in the making of the home a place of joy for her family. She was a devout member of the St. Catherine's church.

The deceased is survived by her husband, and the following sons and daughters: Bert, Mark, Emmett, Leo and Josie.

Henry Peterson, of Grass Flat, spent the week end at his father's home on Turnpike avenue.

Miss Cecelia Peterson of Turnpike avenue is visiting relatives and friends in Williamsport.

Miss Alma Smeal of West Front street, left for Butler today where she will spend some time with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beish and daughter Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Beish and son Howard, motored to Bellefonte and State College Sunday.

Miss Ardythe Beish of Juniata College spent the week end with her parents on Nichols street.

Misses Mildred White and Maberta Powell left for Williamsport today where they will visit relatives and friends.

Jim Crow Cars Are Under Fire Before Government Agency

Washington, D. C., July 31. (United Press).—The validity of "Jim Crow" rules on certain southern railroads has been called into question before the Interstate Commerce Commission and that body will shortly rule whether they are legal.

One Joseph P. Evans, describing himself as a citizen of the United States and a gentleman of color, in March, 1922, bought a ticket in Charleston, W. Va., for Cincinnati.

Boarding a C. & O. train, he rode in a regular passenger coach with whites until the train reached the Kentucky line, where he was asked to move forward into another coach that was divided, half and half, between baggage and negroes.

Evans refused, saying that he knew of no law or rule requiring him to move. The conductor informed him that the road had a rule, though it was secret and unpublished, requiring the segregation of negroes from whites in trains traveling through Kentucky.

Won in Iowa Court
Evans still refused and later was taken into custody by a railroad policeman, removed from the train and brought before a court the following day.

The court upheld Evans' declaration he had committed no offense. Evans thereupon commenced action before the Interstate Commerce Commission for refund of $8.52 fare he had paid, and brought before the commission the whole question of the rights of railroads to compel segregation of passengers by color without the authority of law.

Hearings have been held before the commission in which Evans and the railroad submitted voluminous evidence in their own behalf. Evans was represented by an array of negro counsel. His attorneys contended that the road's rule has no validity because it has never been filed with the commission, which has decreed that all railroad rules must be in its files, approved by it, before they are valid.

Additional arguments presented in a brief just filed with the commission by Evans' attorneys, subsequent to the hearings, contend that in addition to being legally invalid, the rule is unreasonable, preventing it forever from being valid. Without apparent reason, Evans' attorneys contend, the rule is enforced only in Virginia and Kentucky and not in West Virginia or Ohio.

Say Rule is Unfair
The brief further states that insofar as accommodations provided for negroes are unequal to those for whites, such a rule is unfair. Evans

Progress Editorial For Women

FALSE CHIVALRY

By FLORENCE DAVIES

"I have just this to say to you folks. I don't want to marry this woman and I'm not going to." With that shocking utterance a young man faced an astonished gathering of people in a small church in a New Jersey town, and stalked down the aisle.

The young woman, it hardly need be said, fainted, and was helped to her home by her parents. One reads the tale in the paper, and finds it "hard to believe. The young man was not very chivalrous, to say the least."

Investigation proved that he had not been a very eager bridegroom. The girl's family had bought the bridal bouquet and hired the carriage, both of which little attentions are usually left to the thoughtfulness of the groom.

One can hardly recommend deserting a lady at the altar. But there is one worse thing. And that is lacking the courage to do so, if you know you have made a mistake.

Shedding as his conduct was, the man who said "No" was right. To be sure he should have run to his courage a good deal sooner. But most people, having allowed themselves to "drift" or to be carried by the tide, right down to the altar, would have gone through with the thing just to save their faces.

But going through with a thing just to keep from seeming foolish has been accountable for a lot of unhappiness.

It takes a good deal of courage sometimes to face about, and admit a mistake.

Most people don't like to say "I'm wrong; I wish I hadn't started this thing." But they would do better to say it than to go on living a mistake for the rest of their lives.

Hundreds of people who read the story of the young man who stalked out of the church, leaving the girl standing there in humiliation probably felt like giving him a coat of tar and feathers. It wasn't a very nice thing to do. But thinking what have been done a little earlier in the game.

Not having made the mistake of thinking that he had, he did the girl a kindness by leaving her in the "No" life of a maid.

It takes a mixture of bravery and humility to back down on a wrong decision. Too many people go through with things just because they are either too proud or too cowardly to admit an error.

Then, whether it is buying a shirt less vacant lot or marrying the wrong girl or choosing the wrong fall coat, they carry on with on misfortune as a result.

contains that where whites are permitted whole cars, negroes should be allowed the same accommodations and not be cramped in half-and-half cars.

It is regarded as extremely probable that the commission, as a result of the Evans' proceeding, will formulate a program for "Jim Crow" regulations for the guidance of roads required or desiring to put them into effect.

ENGINEER KILLED BY EXPLOSION OF A LEHIGH ENGINE

Wilkes Barre, July 30.—One man was killed and another seriously injured when the boiler of a Lehigh Valley engine No. 59 blew up shortly before midnight while pulling a train of freight cars over the mountain at Bradens near White Haven.

Engineer Marvin Blank, 44, of West Pittston was instantly killed. His body, horribly torn, mangled and scalded was found pinned under the cab of the wrecked engine.

Fireman John McHale, 35, of Pittston was seriously burned and is in a critical condition at Mercy Hospital here.

The boiler was hurled some distance into the underbrush, the engine being lifted from the tracks by the force of the explosion and completely wrecked. None of the cars left the tracks. Company officials could assign no cause for the explosion today, although wrecking train and several inspectors were rushed to the scene at once.

When they put up a resistance. They were finally landed in the lock-up but did not like their barracks very well so by some hook or crook made their escape.

Harry Ammerman and family came over from Philipsburg Saturday evening and spent Sabbath with Mrs. Sarah Ammerman.

The tally-ward man at the church corner informed us yesterday that an average of over one hundred cars per hour went past his post of observation, which means that in every 24 hours 2400 cars of all description dimensions, pass over the main street of Curwensville.

Persistent Bees.

For 20 years a swarm of bees have occupied the back of the school clock at Midechever, England, and no attempt at removing them has been successful, states a resident of that town. The swarm had been thought destroyed some years ago and the entrance the bees had made was cemented up, but each year they have returned, and they even bored a new hole through the cement.

Corry Horse Shoe Pitchers Lose

As the visitors arrived just in schedule time to play there was no time for dinner. After three hours of continuous pitching it was one hollow crowd that belook themselves to Jordan's to stoke up for the return drive. The whole trip must have come pretty close to a twenty-four hour run—pretty stiff considering that some of the men had to work the following day. At any rate, the indications are pretty good for Corry. Here's to her! May she come often and stay longer.

Ingenuity.

One of the most exciting occupations is that in which newsboys engage when a coin drops through a grating in the sidewalk. A long stick is found first. Someone provides a end of chewing gum, which is stuck on the end of the stick. Then one of the boys guides the gum to the coin and draws it forth, while the rest of the gang coaches and criticizes.—Exchange.

PRESIDENT HARDING SUFFERS SERIOUS COLLAPSE

HEART SYMPTOMS OF A SERIOUS NATURE WORRY PHYSICIANS

All Pacific Coast Speech
Making Called Off and
Chief Executive Kept
to His Bed By Doctors.

HAD A GOOD NIGHT

San Francisco, Cal., July 30.—President Harding has suffered a serious collapse following the illness that attacked him in Seattle. Serious heart symptoms have developed. After a consultation of physicians early this morning, the President's entire Pacific program has been cancelled.

At five o'clock this morning Doctor Joel T. Boone, who remained through the night at President Harding's bedside reported that the President was sleeping quietly and he had passed a fairly good night.

Secretary Christian, early today, sent a telegram to the committee in charge of arrangements for the President's visit to Los Angeles, Catalina and San Diego informing them of the calling off of all Pacific Coast engagements.

President Harding left Washington on June 20th on his trip to Alaska and his first speech was delivered June 21, at St. Louis. He made many addresses between that time and July 5th, when he embarked on the transport Henderson for the voyage through the inside passage to Alaska. Enroute back to Vancouver and Seattle he and several members of his party were made ill by ptomaine poisoning, believed to have been caused by a crab served at a dinner. Upon arrival at San Francisco the President seemed to be improved but heart symptoms developed and all his Pacific engagements have been cancelled, including speeches at San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego.

San Francisco, Cal., July 30.—President Harding was still sleeping at 8:30 a. m. today, it was learned at his suite in the Palace Hotel here.

At that hour Mrs. Harding had arisen and began her day's watch at her husband's bedside.

San Francisco, Cal., July 30.—President Harding's condition was improved this morning, Secretaries Hoover and Work said at 9:40 a. m. today after they had called at the President's suite.

President Harding is the second chief executive to be stricken while on a speaking tour through the country.

In September, 1919, Woodrow Wilson was forced to abandon his trip in behalf of the League of Nations when he suffered a nervous collapse aboard his special train near Wichita, Kan. Mr. Harding had an attack of ptomaine poisoning and developed heart symptoms in the Palace hotel, San Francisco, having been forced to cancel the remainder of his Pacific Coast speeches.

ANNOUNCES MARRIAGE

Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly, of Curwensville, announce the marriage of their daughter, Florence Mae, to Edwin Passmore, which happy event occurred on Monday, July 2nd, 1923. The groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Passmore of the Leonard House.

The young couple are "at home" at 103 1/2 North Elm Street, Warren, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Al Rogers and son Raymond left Saturday in their car for a two weeks' tour of eastern cities. They will visit at Lock Haven, Sunbury, Mt. Pocono, Stroudsburg, Delaware Water Gap, Pa.; Phillipsburg, N. J., and New York City.

Cuno's Resignation Is Frankly Demanded By Many German Papers

Beilin, July 30.—Resignation of Chancellor Cuno's cabinet is openly demanded by many German newspapers.

Dissatisfaction with the Government's financial and taxation policy is the fundamental complaint. Collapse of the mark, which hit a new record low at 1,100,000 to the dollar when the Bourse opened today is blamed upon Cuno's policy of speeding up the printing presses to meet the falling exchange.

DUBOIS GIRL IS DEAD AS THE RESULT OF AN AUTOMOBILE MISHAP

DuBois, Pa., July 30.—As the result of an automobile accident that took place on the dirt road between the DU Pennsylvania tower and the state highway at Shuffers, one girl is dead another one is seriously injured and three others injured, the exact extent not yet known.

The dead:
Miss Mary Rokoski, aged 18, died at the Maple Avenue hospital.

The injured:

Miss Valera Bills, aged 15 years, dislocated shoulder and lacerations. Patient at the Maple Avenue hospital.

Miss Anna Wallack, aged 15, lacerations and minor bruises. Patient at the Maple Avenue hospital.

Mary Kuderavich, slightly injured, taken to her home.

"Choo Choo" Wallack, driver of the car, slightly hurt.

The Bills girls were in a truck with some other girls enroute to Narrows Creek, when a tire was punctured. They stopped along the road, while the driver fixed the puncture. About this time the fire whistle blew and the Wallack car came along. It already contained the Kuderavich girl and the Wallack girl, and the other two girls got in. It is stated that they came to town, and were enroute back to the truck when the accident happened. Miss Mary Urban, who was with the truckload, stated that she saw the car coming back; that all at once the car jumped into the air and then toppled over on its side and continued rolling over until it struck a tree alongside the road. She saw the girls thrown out onto the road.

Those at the truck immediately hurried to the scene. It was found that the Rokoski girl was unconscious. The Bills girl arose after the accident and started to walk, but collapsed. Wallack, the driver, emerged from the wreck and asked for the girls. The other occupants, apparently were not injured to any extent.

The two most seriously injured were immediately hurried to the hospital, and given attention. It was found that the Rokoski girl had suffered a compound fracture of the skull and she lingered in an unconscious condition until 6:30 o'clock, when death came.

The condition of the Bills girl is described as very good, considering the extent of her injuries. The other occupants of the car were not seriously hurt.

COYNE CONFESSES TO MURDERING OF HIS BRIDE IN FIGHT

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 30.—Tortured by the vision of his girl wife falling at his feet with a bullet hole in her head, Patrick Coyne, brakeman, in the West Penn hospital with both legs off above the knees as a result of falling under a train, today cleared the mystery surrounding the finding of the nude body of his wife, Julia, in the honeymoon cottage at Port Perry nearly two weeks ago.

Coyne said his wife was shot while they were scuffling for possession of a revolver after he had reprimanded her for lying in bed and neglecting him.

After the shooting Coyne said he washed the body, placed it in bed and covered it up. He said he left home and returned twice, finally going to work.

Worried and nervous, he said he fell under a train in the Duquesne yards where he was employed as a brakeman. Coyne did not attempt suicide, he said.

FORD, POOR MAN AT 40, IS FABULOUSLY RICH TODAY AT 60

Detroit, Mich., July 30.—Henry Ford, maker of automobiles and the world's richest man, is 60 years old today.

Twenty years ago, on his fortieth birthday, he was a poor man. He had just quit a job with the Detroit Edison Company where he had worked seven years to organize the Ford Motor Company.

While he was working as a master mechanic in the Edison power plant, carrying his dinner pail to work and drawing a salary of $12 a month, Ford was spending his nights and holidays working on his "ho less carriage."

LEWIS DENIES HE HAS ANY PART IN CODE LITIGATION

Harrisburg, Pa., July 30.—"I am not a party to or interested in the Snyder-Woodruff controversy nor will I permit the attorney general or state treasurer, or even the Governor to draw me into the same," Auditor General S. S. Lewis declared in a statement today.

Woodruff was to see Lewis today to request him to certify the payment of salaries held up by Snyder, notwithstanding the fact that they have not been returned to the auditor general for such action.

"The auditor general has done everything required of him in connection with these disputed matters," Lewis stated. He said he intended to co-operate "not only with the Pinchot administration but with the Treasury Department."

SINGLE TRAIN KILLS FOURTEEN PEOPLE AT A GRADE CROSSING; SUNDAY'S TOLL IS THIRTY-SEVEN THROUGHOUT NATION

New York, July 30.—Thirty-seven persons were killed and scores injured over Sunday when they were struck by speeding railroad trains. Most of the casualties occurred when the trains crashed into automobiles on grade crossings.

A single train, enroute from St. Louis to New York, killed four in one accident, nine in the second and then killed a man, making fourteen in all. Four women and a man were killed when their automobile stalled in front of an express train on Long Island.

Four were killed at Gainesboro, Ga., and four at Popular Bluffs, Mo. Three were killed at Glasboro, N. J.

FIVE UNMASKED BANDITS KILL MAN AND WOUND FOUR IN HOLD-UP OF AN ELECTRIC TRAIN NEAR PITTSSTON; STEAL PAYROLL

Pittston, Pa., July 30.—Opening fire when they met resistance, five unmasked bandits today killed one passenger, wounded four others and escaped from the Laurel Line electric, interurban train with an $85,000 payroll of the West End Coal Company.

The hold-up, the most sensational ever staged in this section, occurred while the train was speeding south of Moosic shortly after 9:30 o'clock this morning. The motorman fell, shot through the chest. The bandits stopped the train near North Avoca where they disappeared in the woods.

Edward J. Maloney, 36, Scranton, representative of the Maloney Oil Company, who was a passenger, was shot to death.

An unidentified elderly woman also a passenger, was so badly wounded that she is not expected to recover. She was rushed to the Pittston Hospital.

CORRY HORSE SHOE PITCHERS LOSE TO LOCAL BARNYARDERS

Corry, Pa., is like Clearfield, an enthusiastic horseshoe town as evidenced by the fact that three auto loads of pitchers and boosters made the 150 mile trip from the up-state town on Saturday to meet the local tossers, leaving Corry at 4 a. m., arriving at Clearfield at 3 p. m., most of the trip being made through the severe rain storm.

Concerning Mr. Wolf, Community Service Executive at Corry and his horseshoe pitchers, the Clearfield club takes pleasure in saying that they are perfect gentlemen and genuine sports. The dignified and friendly manner in which they took their defeat made a fine and lasting impression on Clearfield. The condition under which the games were pulled off were by no means regular, owing to weather conditions yet there was never a kick from the Corryites.

It is expected to return the visit in two weeks and the local men are anticipating a jolly trip and friendly reception as well as a good game. To the pitchers listed below will be added Hudson of Ogden avenue who was to play doubles with Mr. Johnson. Both doubles matches were started but the rain became a bit too wet.

THERE IS BALM IN GILEAD, A LITTLE AT LEAST SINCE WE WON A BASEBALL GAME FROM OLD RIVALS-PHILIPPSBURG

Though we felt constrained to doubt it, we are now of the opinion there is at least a small portion of "Balm in Gilead." We were moved to this conclusion on Saturday afternoon over at the Park where our local American Legion Ball Team jumped onto their Phillipsburg rivals and smote their hip and thigh. In fact the slaughter was so complete that it brought tears to the eyes of old Jupiter Pluvius himself and this tight old curmudgeon became so affected by the sight that he wept so copiously in the eighth inning that Umpire Linschbiger was forced to call the game as our half of that session started.

WITNESSES DECLARE MAHAFFEY BRIDGE SURFACE BUM JOB

Three Inch Dirt Cushion
Laid Between Concrete
and Top Coat Seems to Be Trouble Maker.

ABSORBS MOISTURE

A public hearing on the Mahaffey bridge, due to the the county viewers refusing to take the bridge off the hands of Contractors Whitaker & Diehl, of Harrisburg, was held at the Court House this morning. Judge Bell presided while the county viewers, County Commissioners and County Solicitor Woodward, county controller's attorney John M. Urey, Esq., and Attorneys W. C. Miller and James A. Gleason, representing interested parties, were present. A delegation of Mahaffey citizens were also on hand to look things over.

H. A. Reese, of the Board of Viewers, was the first witness called and testified as to the fault found by the viewers with the floor of the bridge, which he said they considered entirely inadequate for the purpose. He said this floor consisted of a three-inch slab of concrete laid upon the iron. Upon this slab was placed a three-inch dirt cushion and on top of this was to be placed three inches of waterbound macadam, which the viewers found instead of repelling the water acted more like a sieve and allowed it to filter through.

Engineer G. A. Flink, of Harrisburg, employed by the County Commissioners as engineer of bridges for the county, was next called. In reply to the questioning of County Solicitor Woodward Mr. Flink stated that the plans for the bridge were prepared in his office, but said the provision for a telford or macadam roadbed was a mistake. However in describing the complained of job he said the same had not been constructed properly, that the dirt for the three inch cushion should have been carefully chosen and then rolled dry and devoid of all moisture, which he was not sure was done by the contractor. He also said the bridge was opened by the contractor too soon, without authorization, and this accounted for the rut in the roadway. That he had recommended the removal of the present surface, the same to be replaced with concrete. Thought this could be done for $300 or $500, although he had recommended that $500 be withheld from the contractors for such replacement. He said the contractors had complied with all the specifications except as to the roadway, and that the "pointing up," while not neatly done, did not interfere with or weaken the masonry on pier and abutments.

When Attorney Woodward had finished with the witness Controller's Counsel Jno. M. Urey took him in hand. To Mr. Urey's questioning Mr. Flink said in part—

That plans were made in his office, but that he did not know the bridge

RALPH DUNBAR'S BELL RINGERS

It is doubtful if any musical feature has ever been presented to the American public which has won greater favor or obtained a wider following than that of musical bell-ringing.

The art was brought to America first in the forties, by the late P. T. Barnum. While touring England, he heard a group of a dozen church bell-ringers practicing upon hand bells and he conceived the idea of using a larger peal of bells and playing more elaborate music. These bells were made in England, as the world's best bells always have been; but in conformity with his unerring originality as an advertiser he dressed the players, both men and women, in the costumes of Swiss peasants and called the company "The Swiss Bell Ringers." For many years this company toured the United States in wagons before railroads were at all general. The art at that time was so successful that our grandfathers recall most vividly the visit of "The Swiss Bell Ringers" to their native towns.

It seems that thereafter the art fell into disuse and it was not really perfected or revived in any worthy way until 1898, when Ralph Dunbar and his brother founded the famous Dunbar Bell Ringers, at St. Joseph, Mo. These brothers went to Europe, and, seeing the really artistic possibilities, they went to England and had made, under their personal supervision, a peal of 200 bells, which are undoubtedly the most complete and most perfect set of bells which were ever cast. These bells were made under their own personal supervision by the same bell founders that cast the great bells of Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral, in London, as well as practically all of the well-known church bells of the world. The peal embraces more than five octaves chromatic, and through middle registers there are as many as six bells of the same note. The peal of the Dunbar Bell Ringers is the most notable of any similar company which has appeared on the American concert platform. They gave more than 2800 concerts up to 1922, when both Harry and Ralph Dunbar resigned their places in the quartet to others. The company, up to then, had traveled 490,000 miles in America and Europe. The Dunbar brothers have collected hundreds of pages of newspaper material published regarding their tours, but the patrons of this Chautauqua system are sufficiently familiar with this widely known concert company to recall the marvelous musical effects which this quartet of players obtains from this splendid peal of bells.

It may be interesting to know that the largest of these bells weighs twenty-five pounds and measures sixteen inches in diameter. The size of those proceeding upward in the scale, diminishing until the tiny bells of the upper registers are reached. In selecting the repertoire due attention is paid to the selection of music which is really appropriate for bells. There is none of us but what has thought of the important place which bells play in our mental activities due to their association with so many epoch-making events in our lives. Perhaps no contributor to our literature has so vividly brought out this fanciful use of bells as has Edgar Allan Poe in his poem entitled "The Bells."

The feature which characterizes the programs of the Dunbar Quartet is the absolute blending of their programs into the complete whole. The o is a consistency in these programs which have distinguished them among all Chautauqua attractions of the last double decade. No feature will be remembered longer than the beautiful chimes and harmonies which are introduced in their sacred selections.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Although "Clover," a horse more than 50 years old, belonging to a Baptist minister near Catawissa, Pa., holds the world's record for age, "Old Kate," the 47-year-old mule that was driven over the streets of Tuscaloosa, Alabama, more than thirty years ago, is a close second and is in a class by herself.

Four years after the world war the United States Government spent $3,500,000,000 of the $4,109,104,150 collected in federal taxes (1922), in paying for past wars and preparing for future conflicts. The balance, about 15 per cent, or some $600,000,000, covered all other governmental departments. This is an economic monstrosity.

If the government told every taxpayer when taking his money, "We are going to spend 85 cents of each of these dollars for war," what would the tax-payer say?

Now the present receipts from tariff rates are approximately 49 per cent of the total federal revenue for the fiscal year 1924, quite enough to meet all peace-time governmental expense. Imagine what it would mean, had people been sane enough to keep out of wars, for the government to be able to say, as it might but for these war taxes, "No money is needed this year from the tax-payer. The tariff is providing all that is necessary." And this is just what might have happened had men and nations dared venture to stake their fortunes on the Golden Rule. No country is so prosperous as to stand this gigantic waste forever. If men could once realize what war has cost them for at least these last 2,000 years the folly would cease.

It took Henry Ford twelve years to sell his first million cars. It took him only six months to sell his eighth million.

Here you have a clear-cut illustration of a principle that regulates success in nearly every field of endeavor. It is so universal a principle that it is almost a natural law.

This is the principle: Getting started is nine-tenths of the battle for success. Once we are "on our feet"—definitely progressing toward our goal—our progress increasingly becomes easier.

Every self-made rich man, looking back over his career, knows that it is more difficult to accumulate the first $1,000 than any $10,000 that follows. Hence the expression: "Money breeds money."

More than 2,000,000 passenger autos and trucks were turned out by

Watch and Clock Repairing

There's a right and a wrong way to do these things but there's only one way that it is done here—RIGHT. When you bring in the timepiece and tell me that it isn't keeping the kind of time that you would like to have and tell me to fix it up, you may rest assured that it will be done as you would like to have it done.

Another thing—sometimes we tell you that you may have a watch or clock at a certain time. But when we get into the repair work, we find that new parts are needed and that we must order them for you, that necessarily makes more or less of a delay. But we try to avoid this as much as possible by keeping quite a stock of parts right here.

W. W. O'BRIEN

American factories in the first six months of 1923. Which is at a rate of about 4,000,000 cars a year.

Ford this year expects to build 1,800,000 cars and trucks.

We are on wheels, as a nation, and the penalty of not exercising our legs enough is showing up in bad digestion, fretful nerves and lessened powers of resisting disease.

Life is becoming too automatic and "soft" for health.

The people of the United States pay more than a million dollars a week for their chewing gum. And the "habit" is apparently a growing one, for the value turned out by the factories of the United States in the latest census year, 1921, is more than double that of the pre-war year, 1914, the first year in which the government dignified the industry by official statements of the amount turned out by the factories of the country.

MENIHAN'S ARCH-AID SHOES

"Corrective"—yes, but correct in style also!

That is our message to every woman who needs scientific arch support—but who desires trim foot-wear of fashionable appearance.

Menihan's Arch-Aid shoes are esteemed for their smart custom lines by women of exacting tastes.

They are correct according to the best metropolitan standards. Yet they are also "corrective," giving support in proper measure and improving foot posture, while aiding the arch to maintain its normal beauty.

Be fair to your arches. Suffering and ill health follow neglect. Thanks to these shoes—fair treatment will actually add grace to the whole foot!

The four-strap oxford shown, has slim, graceful severity of line, which helps to accentuate as well as maintain the natural beauty of the arch. Brown or black, in all sizes and widths.

Painting Windows.
An effective and cheap method of darkening windows is to stipple them by means of a brush with white lead and turpentine, applied lightly or thickly as desired. Red lead could be used where a tint is preferred, or other colors could be obtained by mixing the pigment of the desired shade with the white lead. This preparation can easily be removed.

Croquet Once "Fall Mail."

Joy of the Work.
On the lower levels there is no adaptation; our selfish desires are at odds with nature, we are out for a good time and get no response; but the keynote of the higher level is Joy—the joy of the father who has found his work, of the lover who has seen his object, of the hero who has received his commission—T. P. Jacks

The Century Plant.
The report that a century plant blooms only once in a hundred years is probably due to the impatience of some of its admirers. In some parts of South America where it grows wild it blooms once in a hundred years, but when it has been transplanted into greenhouses under artificial conditions its blooming date is much prolonged.

The so-called Venetian blinds first came to Venice from Spain, where they were called "jealousies." The jealous Spanish husband kept his wife in seclusion. She was not allowed to draw up her blinds, but she might peep out through the slits between the laths.

It is not surprising that President Harding has suffered a breakdown. He has had a three year grind of the hardest kind of a job—trying to please a hundred million people. These three years have been crowded with events of great magnitude. There has hardly been a moment that he could call his own, even his hours of play being set by rigid rules of medical men and secretaries. The trip to Alaska to many of us would be a joyride but to Mr. Harding it is work. Three, four and even six times a day he had to appear before throngs of people to make a speech and speech making requires effort. Not alone does it require physical exertion but in his position he must of necessity exercise great care to choose his words, else his statements would be misconstrued and deliberately twisted by those with ulterior motives.

It is hardly likely that Mr. Harding's illness will be of the serious nature of Mr. Wilson's breakdown. Mr. Wilson's breakdown followed a long period of intense devotion to a great ideal, the working out of which was almost too strenuous for any man to live through. Mr. Harding's illness was caused by something that he ate. His recovery will be speedy, we predict, but the heart symptoms he shows, serve to emphasize to us the drain on a constitution of the rigorous life a president of a red-blooded nation must live.

Despite the fact that there are hundreds of bridges across streams in the state of Pennsylvania carrying vehicle traffic, it appears that somebody had to continue experimenting in the surface of these bridges and, judging from the hearing this morning on the Mahaffey Bridge, Clearfield County is going to pay something to add to the sum total of knowledge had by bridge engineers.

The idea of a dirt cushion between a concrete base and a water bound macadam surface on a county bridge sounds good—for good weather. We can imagine that roadway having a resiliency that would take all the shakes out of the rear seat of a Henry Ford. We can also imagine a freezing climate clogging up all drainage holes, with the result that a Spring thaw would stand that macadam on end and make of it a fac simile of the bad lands of Dakota, thereby restoring to the aforesaid Henry all his natural shakes and a few more besides.

The funny part of it is that the designer of this bridge was not content to draw up the plans and specifications in accordance with proven successful methods. $500.00 is not enough to withhold to re-surface this bridge. Neither is $900.00. It will be interesting to see the bids made on this work.

Is Auditor General Sam Lewis out of training? Sam has been in the limelight ever since the big show started at Harrisburg—in fact he had a hand in starting it—and when there was a lull between the acts, Sam leaped into the Pinchot arena, cracked a whip or two, discharged a blank pistol at the animals, and put the show across.

Now that Mr. Snyder and Mr. Pinchot are putting on a side show or concert after the big show, Sam refuses to snake dance or ride the bucking bronchos. He does, however, agree to keep back the crowd and pick up any performers who are thrown from their steeds. "Co-operate" is the word Sam uses.

But Sam ought to be in that show. He is some actor. His new role is a new one but full of opportunities and Sam never overlooked an opportunity yet.

A MILLION DOLLARS A WEEK FOR CHEWING GUM

Census figures show output of the factories $40,000,000 in 1921, stated at factory values. Exports go to 75 different countries of the world.

The people of the United States pay more than a million dollars a week for their chewing gum. And the "habit" is apparently a growing one, for the value turned out by the factories of the United States in the latest census year, 1921, is more than double that of the pre-war year, 1914, the first year in which the government dignified the industry by official statements of the amount turned out by the factories of the country.

This assertion that the people of the United States now pay more than a million dollars a week for their chewing gum is based upon statements of the factory output of this particular industry compiled for the Trade Record of The National City Bank of New York. It shows that the value at the factory of the chewing gum produced in the United States in 1921, the latest census year, was $38,100,000, to which may be added about 2 1/2 million dollars as a by-product of certain other factories, making the factory value of the total output in 1921 about 41 million dollars, while of course the additional sums paid by the final purchaser would bring the total sum paid by the consumers considerably above an average of one million dollars a week. It seems that the "habit" has proved contagious as relates to other countries, for our exports of chewing gum show as large a percentage of increase as do those of factory production. Whether it was the example set by the American soldiers who found it a convenient companion in their long marches, it is at least a fact that the world demand began shortly after the opening of the war and grew very rapidly, since official statistics of exports, which only began with the year 1916, show an advance from less than 1 million dollars in 1916 to 2 1/2 millions in 1920, while the value of the exports in 1923, though materially less than in 1920, are 40% greater than in 1922.

Where does it go—these millions of dollars worth of this product now being sent out of the country? To practically every country of the world. Figures prepared for the Trade Record show that the exports of chewing gum in 1920 went to no less than 75 countries and colonies scattered the world over. To dignified England the total exports of 1920 were approximately a million dollars, measured at the wholesale price at the port from which exported, and in 1918 the exports to Great Britain were $1,120,000. France took in 1920 $383,000 worth, and other European countries in proportionate quantities, though to Germany the export was comparatively small, only $260 worth. That it is equally popular in the other side of the globe is evidenced by the fact that our total exports to Asia and Oceania amounted to nearly a half million dollars in value, including $288,000 to the Philippines, $75,000 to Japan, $42,000 to Australia, and $14,000 to India. South America also developed the habit and the total to that continent in 1920 was $275,000, while the sales in Africa were also large, the total to Egypt alone being nearly $100,000.

That the habit has "come to stay" seems to be an accepted view by that very high authority—capital, for nothing is so wary as capital in forecasting the future demand of a manufacturing industry. And when we find, says the Trade Record, that the amount of capital invested in the chewing gum industry as stated by the census reports was in 1919 $23,000,000 against only $10,000,000 in 1914, it would appear that those studying the standpoint of the investor have confidence in the future world demand for this article of which the United States is apparently the chief producer, since official records of the government fail to show any importations of this class of merchandise.

was to be located on an improved state road; that he hadn't been at the site of the bridge for at least a year previous to the letting of the contract in September, 1922, was there in 1921. He said a roadway like the present one was insufficient for the traffic and when asked why he recommended it in the original plan said he did so as a matter of economy. He said the specifications were afterward changed by the viewers and that he suggested the change to concrete, and did so because he found the original insufficient when he learned the bridge was on a state road, and again said he didn't specify sufficient roadway for this bridge as a matter of economy, saying he expected to save $400 thereby. He also said the decision to change the specifications had been made by the County Commissioners. He now recommends that the roadway be made of concrete similar to that of the state road at either end of the bridge.

At the conclusion of Engineer Flink's testimony Judge Bell asked if any other person desired to be heard. The contractors were present, but had nothing to say and when Commissioner Weimer told the Court there was a delegation of Mahaffey citizens present, Judge Bell said he knew anything was said and asked if they had anything to say. Their spokesman informed the Court that all they had to say was they "wanted a solid roadway on that bridge."

County Surveyor Charles A. McDonald was called and he went into further details as to the defects in the roadway as pointed out in the report of the viewers which he had paid to the contractors and resulted in this hearing. At the conclusion of the testimony of the county surveyor Judge Bell announced the hearing to be at an end and stated that he would render his opinion and decree in the matter in the near future.

WANDERING FROM HOME, DUBOIS LADY IS FOUND DEAD

DuBois, Pa., July 30.—The lifeless remains of Mrs. William Lawless, of West Washington avenue, were found in a clump of woods near the old Edgemont Park yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock, following a search that had extended over a period dating since Saturday morning, at which time Mrs. Lawless left her home, supposedly on a shopping trip uptown.

Last April Marie Lawless, a daughter of the deceased, died, and since that time the mother has grieved deeply, and undoubtedly at the time she left home was in a despondent frame of mind. On Saturday morning, Mrs. Lawless, with a basket on her arm, left the home and started uptown, apparently. Mr. Lawless saw her go and supposed she was going on a shopping expedition. After the passing of a couple of hours and the missing woman did not come home, a search was instituted. This search continued all day, relatives and friends being enlisted. Towards evening, with no signs of the missing woman, genuine alarm was felt, and the search was prosecuted, diligently into the night, but no traces were found.

Yesterday the search was started on a larger scale. The area around the home was searched about 1:30 and a large crowd assembled at the Friendship

NEW BOILER AND ELEVATOR EXAM. RULES ANNOUNCED

Harrisburg, July 30. (United Press).—Secretary Royal Meeker, of the Department of Labor and Industry, has recalled the credentials of all boiler and elevator inspectors issued prior to passage of the new fee laws and will issue new credentials only to qualified inspectors, either attached to casualty companies or the department, it was announced today.

Plans have been practically completed, according to the announcement, to put into effect the provisions of these laws, which are expected to bring in fees to meet the expenses incurred in enforcement.

Another fee law placed under jurisdiction of the Department of Labor and Industry is the Bedding and Upholstery law, passed last session. In the enforcement of this law, it was stated, the new revenue expected to be derived therefrom in the sale of tags to be attached to all articles covered in this act will more than pay the operating expenses necessary to carry out its provisions.

Dr. Meeker explained the boiler and elevator laws operate as follows: "All owners of uninsured boilers shall pay a fee of ten dollars for each annual internal and external inspection of a boiler while not under pressure, which fee includes an external inspection of said boiler under operating conditions, and the actual expenses incurred by the inspector."

"This includes the certificate fee of one dollar which certificate is issued to all owners of boilers, and which indicates thereon that the boiler is safe to operate at the pressure limit named in the inspector's report."

"The annual fee collected by the department for inspection of elevators, will be a fee of one dollar, to be paid when the certificate permitting operation of the elevator is issued by the department, upon report of the inspector that the elevator is in a safe working condition."

Hose Company headquarters, from which point an organized search was started. It was shortly before three o'clock that the lifeless remains were found in the woods, death probably coming from exhaustion.

Mrs. Lawless was 60 years of age and had lived in DuBois for many years. She was a woman of the highest type, one who believed in the making of the home a place of joy for her family. She was a devout member of the St. Catherine's church.

The deceased is survived by her husband, and the following sons and daughters: Bert, Mark, Emmett, Leo and Josie.

Henry Peterson, of Grass Flat, spent the week end at his father's home on Turnpike avenue.

Miss Cecelia Peterson of Turnpike avenue is visiting relatives and friends in Williamsport.

Miss Alma Smeal of West Front street, left for Butler today where she will spend some time with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beish and daughter Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Beish and son Howard, motored to Bellefonte and State College Sunday.

Miss Ardythe Beish of Juniata College spent the week end with her parents on Nichols street.

Misses Mildred White and Maberta Powell left for Williamsport today where they will visit relatives and friends.

Jim Crow Cars Are Under Fire Before Government Agency

Washington, D. C., July 31. (United Press).—The validity of "Jim Crow" rules on certain southern railroads has been called into question before the Interstate Commerce Commission and that body will shortly rule whether they are legal.

One Joseph P. Evans, describing himself as a citizen of the United States and a gentleman of color, in March, 1922, bought a ticket in Charleston, W. Va., for Cincinnati.

Boarding a C. & O. train, he rode in a regular passenger coach with whites until the train reached the Kentucky line, where he was asked to move forward into another coach that was divided, half and half, between baggage and negroes.

Evans refused, saying that he knew of no law or rule requiring him to move. The conductor informed him that the road had a rule, though it was secret and unpublished, requiring the segregation of negroes from whites in trains traveling through Kentucky.

Won in Iowa Court
Evans still refused and later was taken into custody by a railroad policeman, removed from the train and brought before a court the following day.

The court upheld Evans' declaration he had committed no offense. Evans thereupon commenced action before the Interstate Commerce Commission for refund of $8.52 fare he had paid, and brought the question of the rights of railroads to compel segregation of passengers by color without the authority of law.

Hearings have been held before the commission in which Evans and the railroad submitted voluminous evidence in their own behalf. Evans was represented by an array of negro counsel. His attorneys contended that the road's rule has no validity because it has never been filed with the commission, which has decreed that all railroad rules must be in its files, approved by it, before they are valid.

Additional arguments presented in a brief just filed with the commission by Evans' attorneys, subsequent to the hearings, contend that in addition to being legally invalid, the rule is unreasonable, preventing it forever from being valid. Without apparent reason, Evans' attorneys contend, the rule is enforced only in Virginia and Kentucky and not in West Virginia or Ohio.

Say Rule is Unfair
The brief further states that insofar as accommodations provided for negroes are unequal to those for whites, such a rule is unfair. Evans

Progress Editorial For Women

FALSE CHIVALRY

By FLORENCE DAVIES

"I have just this to say to you folks. I don't want to marry this woman and I'm not going to." With that shocking utterance a young man faced an astonished gathering of people in a small church in a New Jersey town, and stalked down the aisle.

The young woman, it hardly need be said, fainted, and was helped to her home by her parents. One reads the tale in the paper, and finds it "hard to believe. The young man was not very chivalrous, to say the least."

Investigation proved that he had not been a very eager bridegroom. The girl's family had bought the bridal bouquet and hired the carriage, both of which little attentions are usually left to the thoughtfulness of the groom.

One can hardly recommend deserting a lady at the altar. But there is one worse thing. And that is lacking the courage to do so, if you know you have made a mistake.

Shedding as his conduct was, the man who said "No" was right. To be sure he should have married his courage a good deal sooner. But most people, having allowed themselves to "drift" or to be carried by the tide, right down to the altar, would have gone through with the thing just to save their faces.

But going through with a thing just to keep from seeming foolish has been accountable for a lot of unhappiness.

It takes a good deal of courage sometimes to face about, and admit a mistake.

Most people don't like to say "I'm wrong; I wish I hadn't started this thing." But they would do better to say it than to go on living a mistake for the rest of their lives.

Hundreds of people who read the story of the young man who stalked out of the church, leaving the girl standing there in humiliation probably felt like giving him a coat of tar and feathers. It wasn't a very nice thing to do. But thinking what have been done a little earlier in the game.

Not having made the mistake of thinking that he had, he did the girl a kindness by leaving her in the "No" life of a maid.

It takes a mixture of bravery and humility to back down on a wrong decision. Too many people go through with things just because they are either too proud or too cowardly to admit an error.

Then, whether it is buying a shirt less vacant lot or marrying the wrong girl or choosing the wrong fall coat, they carry on with on misfortune as a result.

contains that where whites are permitted whole cars, negroes should be allowed the same accommodations and not be cramped in half-and-half cars.

It is regarded as extremely probable that the commission, as a result of the Evans' proceeding, will formulate a program for "Jim Crow" regulations for the guidance of roads required or desiring to put them into effect.

ENGINEER KILLED BY EXPLOSION OF A LEHIGH ENGINE

Wilkes Barre, July 30.—One man was killed and another seriously injured when the boiler of a Lehigh Valley engine No. 59 blew up shortly before midnight while pulling a train of freight cars over the mountain at Bradens near White Haven.

Engineer Marvin Blank, 44, of West Pittston was instantly killed. His body, horribly torn, mangled and scalded was found pinned under the cab of the wrecked engine.

Fireman John McHale, 35, of Pittston was seriously burned and is in a critical condition at Mercy Hospital here.

The boiler was hurled some distance into the underbrush, the engine being lifted from the tracks by the force of the explosion and completely wrecked. None of the cars left the tracks. Company officials could assign no cause for the explosion today, although wrecking train and several inspectors were rushed to the scene at once.

When they put up a resistance. They were finally landed in the lock-up but did not like their barracks very well so by some hook or crook made their escape.

Harry Ammerman and family came over from Philipsburg Saturday evening and spent Sabbath with Mrs. Sarah Ammerman.

The tally-ward man at the church corner informed us yesterday that an average of over one hundred cars per hour went past his post of observation, which means that in every 24 hours 2400 cars of all description dimensions, pass over the main street of Curwensville.

Persistent Bees.

For 20 years a swarm of bees have occupied the back of the school clock at Midechever, England, and no attempt at removing them has been successful, states a resident of that town. The swarm had been thought destroyed some years ago and the entrance the bees had made was cemented up, but each year they have returned, and they even bored a new hole through the cement.

Watch Out, Carlsbad!

Carlsbad, the famous health resort is built on a coast, underneath which is a subterranean lake of boiling water, and all the hot sulphur springs have to be ceaselessly watched and the pressure kept down lest the town be destroyed.

Corry Horse Shoe Pitchers Lose

As the visitors arrived just in schedule time to play there was no time for dinner. After three hours of continuous pitching it was one hollow crowd that belook themselves to Jordan's to stoke up for the return drive. The whole trip must have come pretty close to a twenty-four hour run—pretty stiff considering that some of the men had to work the following day. At any rate, the indications are pretty good for Corry. Here's to her! May she come often and stay longer.

Birds in the Bible.
The species of feathered creatures mentioned in the Bible are osprey, osprey, ostrich, partridge, peacock, pelican, pigeon, quail, raven, sparrow, stork, swallow, swan, swift, turtle dove, vulture, bittern, cock, cornucopia, crane, crow, cuckoo, dove, eagle, gler, fox, glider, hawk, night hawk, heron, hoopoe, kite, lapwing, owl, great owl, little owl, owl of the desert and screech owl.

Marble.
Marble is a product of marine sediments and volcanic fires. It is laid down on the sea bottom as shell heaps, which gradually turn into chalk. If the strata should be deeply buried in the rocks, the intense heat of the earth causes chemical elements to rearrange themselves so that they crystallize into marble. Various impurities in the chalk give the marble its various hues.

Money Not Everything.
When I hear a man saying that he is in business only for the money he can make and not for the favors he can render, I think of what some wise man said one time: "If a pig could pray he would devote his entire prayer to corn and swill, but man should pray for other sorts of things." —Tom Driker in Forbes.

GEE, WHERE'D YOU GET THAT? WHO BOUGHT IT FOR YOU?

NOBODY BOUGHT IT—ANY DOP MADE IT FOR ME—AMN'T HE NICE? DO THAT?

YES, HONEST HE MADE IT—AIN'T ANY DOP AIN'T SMART?

GEE—I SHOULD SAY! I WISH MY DOP WAS AS SMART AS YOURS

AIN'T JUST THINK! HE MADE IT OUT OF HIS OWN HEAD—ANY HE STILL HAS ENOUGH WOOD LEFT TO MAKE A TOOL CHEST.
